Best sports themed board games

Board games remain a popular classic among children and adults of any age. So I wondered why not buy a board game of my own instead of yet another game? It was super fun to make board games and I would definitely encourage you to make it as a gift or play with friends and family! Rules:Objective - has the highest points by the end of the game. Set up - whether each player moves the dice rolling. Whoever gets the highest number, he holds his crown first. They can choose any star to keep the crown. Then the next player places his crown and so on until all the players have done so. Each player starts with 5 citizen tokens, 25 coins and 1 objective. Their objective is that players can choose the level of difficulty. Objective Card - If a player serves his purpose, they get 3 points for easy, 6 points for medium and 12 points for hard. However, if a player does not serve his purpose, they lose points (1 point for easy, 3 points for medium, and 6 points for hard). Other ways to gain points include: keeping paths - players can buy paths with coins. To get coins, players roll two of the dice at the beginning of their turn. The total rolled number determines how many coins the player receives. Players can afford coins but they want during their turn. If a player decides not to spend all his coins, the player can save the remaining coins for the next turn, which can increase the number over time. Green paths cost 4 coins, blue paths cost 12 coins, and red paths cost 25 coins. Acquiring citizens - a player advantage for each new citizen, they get 5 points. Players can buy citizens for 10 coins. When bought, the Nationals can be placed wherever the player chooses. The Nationals can only be placed on the stars that the player owns. After the player has put down a citizen, the citizen can only visit the adjacent stars whose owner is the player owner. Each twist, the player gets a chance to take a citizen to an adjacent star. Players can't choose to move civilians at all. There must be at least 1 citizen on each owned star. If that doesn't happen, the star becomes open to taking other players. Attack - If a player already owns at least 3 stars, they can now try to attack other players and gain more stars. A player can only attack from a star who is owned by an adjacent star. Attacking rules come from rules of sports risk. This is a simplified version of the way you attack at risk. The way it works is to see the number of civilians of both attacking and defending players before it. Whoever has the highest number of Nationals determines how many dice players get. They can choose either 1 or 2 dice. If 1 dice is selected, both defending and attacking Get 1 dice to roll. If 2 dice are selected, both defending and attacking players get 2 dice to roll. Next, both players roll at the same time. Whoever gets the highest total in their dice wins. If the players are tie, the match goes to the defender. Deletes one of the losers Citizens. This method is used until either the Attack Star 1 citizen is left or the rescue star runs out of the Nationals. The game ends when all the stars are claimed by someone and there are no more stars left to claim.
